CONVALESCENT.

President Garfield Pronounced Out of Danger.

He Wants to Take a Trip to Long Branch Right Away.

THE PRESIDENT'S SYMPTOMS.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 18.—The following telegram was sent by the attending surgeons to the consulting surgeons to-night:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 18, 7 p. m.—To Dr. Frank H. Hamilton and Dr. H. Agnew: Shortly after our dispatch of yesterday the president received a hypodermic injection of one-eighth of a grain of sulphate of morphia. He slept well during the night and this morning at 8:30 had a pulse of 88, temperature 98.6, respiration 18. This day, however, was not quite so comfortable as yesterday. A slight gastric disturbance was noted towards noon, in consequence of which the quantity of nourishment administered was temporarily diminished. This was followed by rather more afternoon fever than yesterday, but the difference was not great, and is thought to be merely a temporary fluctuation. At 1 p. m. his pulse was 98, temperature 98.5, respiration 18. At 7 p. m. pulse 102, temperature 100.7, respiration 21. (Signed) D. W. BLISS,
J. K. BARNES,
J. J. WOODWARD,
ROB'T REYBURN.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Washington, 7 P. M.—The president has had a little more fever this afternoon, which is regarded as merely a temporary fluctuation. At 1 p. m. his pulse was 98, temperature 98.5, respiration 18. At present his pulse is 102, temperature 100.7, respiration 21.

UNOFFICIAL BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, July 17. Executive Mansion, 9 A. M.—The president's progress towards convalescence, noted in the official bulletin of Saturday, steadily continues. He feels greatly refreshed by the restful, unbroken sleep which he had last night, and which was assisted by an agreeable change in the weather. His pulse is gradually lessening, it now being 88, with normal temperature and respiration. He will receive for breakfast beefsteak, toast and mint juice and poached eggs, and later on a little oatmeal cooked to a jelly. It is deemed best by the surgeons to give him solid substantial food in the morning, discontinuing it at 1 o'clock, after which only liquid nourishment is to be administered.

STILL IMPROVING.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 18, 1:30 p. m.—The condition of the president has not majorially changed since morning. He has no fever, and is resting quietly. Pulse 90, temperature and respiration normal.

OUT OF DANGER.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 17 6:30 P. M.—The president has passed a very comfortable day. Dr. Boynton, in conversation this afternoon, expressed the opinion that the critical period had passed; that the president, although extremely weak, is now out of danger. Continuing, he said: "There is no doubt that he will gain strength daily now, and there is every reason to hope for his ultimate recovery."

Major Crump, steward of the mansion and one of the night attendants upon the president, says: "If the president continues as well during this week as he has been for the past few days he will in my opinion be able to sit up and eat his meals by next Sunday."

Major Swain, who is almost constantly with the president, said this afternoon that he was progressing finely. In reply to a question about Mrs. Garfield's health, he said: "Oh, Mrs. Garfield is getting along nicely. She spends most of her time at her husband's bedside."

ALMOST READY TO SIT UP.

To-day Crump said to the president he believed he would be sitting up to his breakfast next Sunday. "Do you really think so?" asked the president. "I do indeed," replied Crump. "I would be surprised, judging from the way I feel now," replied the president.

Drs. Reyburn and Bliss left the White House together about 9 o'clock to-night. Dr. Bliss replied, when asked about the president: "He is doing splendid and that covers everything. He is decidedly better than at any time yet. His fever came on later this evening than at any previous day. He has a good appetite and relishes his food. He is gaining some strength and beginning to be able to move himself about. He is cheerful and getting well!"

GREATER HOPES THAN EVER.

WASHINGTON, July 18. To-day Dr. Bliss pressed on the president's stomach along where the ball is believed to have passed and started a flow of pus. The doctors say at least a wineglass full of pus started, which is an indication that the wound is open all along the track of the ball and that it will begin healing from the inside. All the surgeons said to-night that their highest hopes of the president's case had been reached up to to-night and their confidence of his recovery is greater than ever before and only one-eighth of a grain of morphine is given every twenty-four hours now. The fever to-day has been very slight and the president rests well sleeping most of the night.

"SCRATCH MY BACK."

NEW YORK, July 18. The Herald's Washington special says: Doctor Bliss being interviewed said: "There was a rather funny thing happened to-day. We were dressing the president's wound with an antiseptic dressing, which is done twice a day, and had him turned over on his side. I was bathing him with alcohol, and pretty soon the president said: 'Doctor, scratch my back.' I began rubbing him up and down along the backbone with my hand and said: 'Now, when you feel I have rubbed you enough just say so.' I continued for some time, but the president said nothing. Pretty soon I called for a hair brush and used that instead of my hand. I then rubbed for a long time, and his back was getting rather red. I then said in a laughing way: 'Now, don't hesitate to speak out if you want me to stop.' He didn't make any reply, but after a while he said with a sort of sigh: 'Well, doctor, there's an end to all things; you can stop.' We all burst out laughing at this. He liked it so much that he hated to have me stop. He gains every day. To-day he rolled himself over in his bed and crossed his legs. He begins to talk about sitting up and going out. He said to me to-day, having heard that cabinet officers went down the river on the steamer Dispatch Saturday: 'Doctor, when do you think I can take a trip on the Dispatch?'

"'Are you a good sailor, Mr. President?'

"'I always have been and guess I am now.'

"'Well, we will consider matters. I think you will be able to go out that way before you can go on the railroad.'"

As the doctors went out one gentleman connected with the White House said: "I think he will be sitting up inside of ten days." Others predicted that by this time next week he would be able to get out of bed. The amount of solid food that the president is eating and his returning strength seems to justify these predictions.

TALKING OF A SEA VOYAGE.

NEW YORK, July 18.—A Washington special says the intense weariness of the president with his confinement, which finds expression in almost every conversation with his friends and attendants, and the anxiety of Dr. Boynton to secure for Mrs. Garfield a change of scene and air, has led to the discussion of the way and means to make a movement without danger. Dr. Bliss says the motion of a railway train might be hurtful even a month from now, while the dangers of the track, the noise, crowds, etc., render that mode of travel out of the question—for many weeks. Colonel Rockwell proposes first to take the president to Old Point Comfort on the steamer Despatch. Should this prove of benefit after a few days, then to take advantage of calm weather and run around to Long Branch. The president is in favor of a seaside resort and longs for the sea voyage. Mrs. Garfield has taken a strong dislike to the White House. She says every hour in it has been replete with care, illness and danger. She believes the president would recover quickly if once out of its influences. If improvement continues at its present rate the surgeons say there is no reason why the president should not spend the first week of August at Long Branch. Every effort will be made to keep from the president the knowledge of his mother's illness, as the shock might be injurious to him at present.

GRAND JURY ADJOURNS.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—District Attorney Corkhill read to the grand jury to-day a note signed by the president's physicians saying that while progressing well his recovery was not certain. On Corkhill's motion the jury was discharged until September 13. Something will then be done with Guiteau.

CONKLING CONSIDERS

That He Will be Elected or There Will be an Adjournment.

STALWARTS STAND FIRM.

ALBANY, July 18. The stalwarts this morning in conference resolved to stand firm for Conkling. Lapham this morning said he had learned that Conkling says he, Lapham, must not be elected.

Senator Mills introduced a bill providing for a special election whenever a vacancy in the office of representative in congress occurs after the 4th of March and more than sixty days before a general election. The bill was made a special order for to-morrow morning.

VOTING FOR CONKLING'S SUCCESSOR.

The vote was then taken and resulted as follows:

Potter	34
Lapham	34
Conkling	33
Evarts	41

Necessary to choice, 59.

Speaker Sharpe did not vote, and it was announced that he was paired. Senator Halbert inquired who he was paired with. The chair said he could not give the information. Spinola said he knew of no democrat he was paired with. The convention proceeded to vote again with the same result.

CONKLING SNEERS.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The Tribune says of Conkling, who arrived in town yesterday: Conkling declared that he was not beaten and that finally it must be determined to take an adjournment of the legislature without electing his successor. But at all hazards he said that Mr. Lapham must be prevented from reaping the reward of his perfidy by an election to the senate. Conkling declared this to Senator-elect Miller, in a sneering way according to his friends while he did not notice his late supporter, Speaker Sharp.

Fire and Death.

RED BANK, N. J. July 18.—A destructive fire to-day swept away a business block on the river front. Nine buildings were destroyed including the Red Bank Register building and the Western Union telegraph office. Assistant Foreman William Conroy, engine No. 2, died of heart disease while assisting the fire. The estimated loss is $75,000.

BILLY THE KID.

At Last the Bullet Finds its Billet.

New Mexico's Noted Outlaw Shot by a Sheriff.

LAS VEGAS, July 18.—The Gazette has positive information this morning from Fort Sumner of the death of "Billy the Kid." This noted desperado was killed at Fort Sumner on the Pecos river on the 14th by Pat Garrett, sheriff of Lincoln county.

LAS VEGAS, N. M., July 18.—County Sheriff Garrett arrived at Sumner on the eve of the 14th. Late in the night he went to Pete Maxwell's house and went in. Two men were left to guard the door. Garrett said to Pete, who was in bed, "I understand that 'Billy the Kid' is here." Pete answered that he was. Garrett was standing at the foot of the bed and there was but little light in the room. Billy just then stepped into the room in his stocking feet; he had a six shooter in one hand and a knife in the other. He saw Garrett standing at the foot of the bed, and asked in Spanish, "Who is that?" Pete didn't answer, but managed to indicate to Garrett that the other person was the Kid, and jumped to the upper end of the bed.

Billy again asked "who's that?" and as he did so Garrett fired striking the Kid through the heart who fell back dead.

An inquest was immediately held and the dead man was fully identified as the noted desperado who struck terror to all the cattle men in the Pecos country. Billy had been roaming around the country in the neighborhood of Fort Stanton since he killed Deputy Sheriffs Bell and Ollinger in Lincoln and escaped early in May, a few days before he was sentenced to hang for the murder of Deputy Sheriff William H. Brady, of Lincoln county, during the war of the stockmen known as the Lincoln county war. He has been living since then on ranches near Fort Sumner. He has been recently going about disguised as a Mexican, so well painted as to deceive people who had known him. He was reported to have gathered a band of Texans and coming up to the Red River country to begin cattle stealing again. There is great joy among cattle men over his death. Garrett, who led the party that rounded up the Kid and band last December, at Stinking Springs, is loudly praised.

The Kid was about 23. He was born in New York city, and has been passing several years under the name of Billy Bonney. His real name was McCarthy. He was buried at Fort Sumner.

Holding Up a Heathen.

DENVER, July 18.—The Las Vegas Gazette says: It is reported that two road agents were killed on the Jornada a few days ago. A Japanese or Chinaman, who has been residing in Grafton in the Black Range, started with a team for Arizona. He had not gone far when he was overtaken by fellows who "held him up" for his horses and wagon and what money he had about him. The poor fellow begged for his life, when he was tied to a tree and left there alone while the thieves started on toward Engel station, on the A. T. & S. F. with their booty. The heathen was able after a while to free himself and immediately notified the officers who put off in pursuit. The road agents made their way leisurely, and were overtaken and killed by a sheriff's posse.

GUITTEAU AND BOOTH.

Parallel Between the Crime of the Two Men.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The Star has an interview with District Attorney Corkhill about Guiteau, in which he says there never has been such an occurrence in this country since Lincoln was assassinated. In that case the assassin was doomed when captured. The trial was by a military commission. There never has been such a thing in the history of the country as the trial by a civil court of a man who attempted to shoot the president. When Mr. Lincoln was assassinated, you remember, Booth was killed by Boston Corbett. "My mail," continued Corkhill, looking over the heap of letters and postal cards on his desk, "is very large every day, from all parts of the country, embracing suggestions from lawyers as to the method of trial, and suggestions of citizens as to what ought to be done, and from persons giving notice that they have known Guiteau, and relating instances of his life. There is an excitement all over the country to show the man up."

"Have you settled the point about the double indictment of Guiteau?" he was asked.

"I am not prepared to say whether two separate offenses can be made out of the two shots fired. There were two shots fired, however. I am not entirely satisfied that they do not constitute two offenses. I have given no definite opinion and made no announcement that I intended to present two separate charges. The gravity of the crime is so great, and the punishment so inadequate, that these suggestions have grown out of the situation. There is," continued Corkhill, "a great similarity between this man's crime and Booth's crime. Both of them had the matter in contemplation some time, and both were seeking a public place to commit the crime. Each party carried weeks before a written statement and defense of his crime. The one, Booth, delivered his statement to an actor named Matthews, who was in such dread of having it in his possession that he read it and burned it. Booth left his statement with Mr. Matthews to be delivered to John F. Coyle, editor of the National Intelligencer, and desired it to be published to the country. This man Guiteau had the same ambition to have the reasons for his crime published, and so far as I have been able to ascertain, both statements are similar in character. Mr. Booth regarded the assassination of Lincoln as necessary to the restoration of the supremacy of the south in the control of the national government. He thought so long as Mr. Lincoln was president the south would continue to be oppressed. Guiteau regarded the assassination of Mr. Garfield as insuring peace and harmony to the republican party. Guiteau followed General Garfield in his carriage, and Booth's idea was to shoot Lincoln in some public place. He had no desire to conceal from the public the fact that he committed the crime. Guiteau's idea was exactly the same. He expected to kill Garfield in church in the presence of a thousand people, going into a carriage and ride immediately to the jail. Booth assassinated Lincoln in a theater, sprang upon the stage and had his means of escape after appearing in the presence of 2,000 people. One was an actor, accustomed to the theaters. It was the arena of the most public significance to him; the other was a man accustomed to speaking in churches on religious subjects and on theological points. The church was in his mind, the most conspicuous spot for the commission of this crime. Both of them were men of great vanity. There is another coincidence. When Booth was captured in a barn, in his diary he says that "there is very little left to clear my name, and the government will not allow it to be printed." And Guiteau complains that the government will not allow his defense to be printed in almost exactly the same language.

"Does he know that the president lives?"

"He has not been permitted to see the papers, but he can tell from his surroundings by seeing the flags flying and not hearing the bells toll, that he lives."

MURDERED IN COLD BLOOD.

A Woman the Cause and Her Husband the Victim.

SANTA FE, N. M., July 15.—The New Mexican of to-morrow will contain an account of a horrible murder which was committed on the 8th inst., on the Animas, Rio Arriba county, N. M., about twenty miles above Farmington. A family named Lewis moved into this country this spring from Cañon City, Colo. They were accompanied by a man named T. H. Jennings. It seems that an undue intimacy has for a long time been existing between Mrs. Lewis and Jennings. Between the two a plan was arranged by which the husband, Lewis, should be murdered and the guilty pair go back to Missouri and be married. The plan was carried into execution. On Friday, the 8th inst., Lewis was killed by Jennings, his body hid in the bushes during the daytime and buried at night in a hole alongside of an irrigating ditch and the water run over the ground in order to eradicate all signs of the crime. The absence of Lewis was noticed, and Sheriff Blancett at once set to work to investigate the matter. With skill equal to that of an experienced detective he managed to find the body and fix the murder on Jennings. A party was formed to lynch Jennings, but by the great influence possessed by Haines and Sheriff Blancett this was prevented. Jennings, upon the assurance of these gentlemen that he should not be lynched, made a full confession, stating that the woman was the cause of the entire matter and upon a promise of marriage from her he committed the deed. After the coroner's inquest an examination was held before Captain Haines, justice of the peace, at which the woman also confessed to being implicated in the murder. Both of the prisoners were committed, and will be taken to Tierra Amearella to be placed in jail.

SELECTING A RESERVATION.

The Ute Commissioners Report a New Site for the Utes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 18.—J. J. Russell, chairman of the Ute commission, arrived in Washington this morning, and later in the day presented his report to Secretary Kirkwood, in which he stated that the commission had selected lands and proposed to locate the Uncompahgre Utes in the vicinity of the junction of Green and White rivers in Utah, and they propose to erect a temporary agency building there and have the agency removal to that point as soon as possible. By this arrangement the Uintahs, White River, and Uncompahgre Utes will be located in one and immediately adjoining the Uintah river. Russell also states in his report that it would be necessary before the removal of the Uncompahgres to have a military force of 150 men stationed at the point indicated for the agency building, as well as a small force for the winter at the Uintah agency. Secretary Kirkwood at once transmitted a copy of this report to the secretary of war accompanied by a letter in which he requested Secretary Lincoln to issue such instructions to the military commandants as shall be necessary to carry into effect the views and wishes of the commissioners respecting the location of troops at the new agency and at the Uintah reservation.

Twenty Children Under a Fallen Building.

NEW YORK, July 18.—A building in Jersey City that was lately burned fell this afternoon burying twenty children under it who were gathering wood. Two have been taken out dead and one with both legs broken.

Burned to Death.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18. The hotel at Nimpew, Butte county, belonging to County Assessor McClellan, was burned this morning. Ed. Mosis and Wm. McIntosh perished in the flames. A portion of the assessor's records were burned. Loss, $3,000. McClellan's family escaped with slight injuries.

BOLD THIEVES.

With a Knife at Her Throat a Lady is Robbed.

Two Burglars Secure Their Booty in Colorado Springs.

One of the most audacious robberies in the history of crime was committed in the very heart of the business portion of Colorado Springs last Sunday evening. Two thieves enter Prewitt's block, on Tejon street, before 11 o'clock at night, sneak into a sleeping apartment and steal the rings off of a lady's fingers and a watch from under her pillow.

The facts in the case are as follows: Mrs. Hopkins, the wife of Mr. T. E. Hopkins, the photographer, had retired to her sleeping apartment adjoining the photograph rooms, in the Prewitt block, at about the hour of 9 o'clock. Mrs. Hopkins did not lock the door, as she expected Mr. Hopkins to return soon.

Between 10 and 11 o'clock Mrs. Hopkins was awakened by the sound of footsteps in her room, and before she had realized what was progressing she saw a man bending over her bed with a knife in his hand. The knife was pressed against her throat and she was commanded to tell where her money was. Half dead with terror, she replied that she had no money. The man then said, "You have rings on, I will take them," and so saying he coolly stripped a plain gold and a diamond ring from her fingers.

Mrs. Hopkins observed that there was another man in the room who was engaged in ransacking the bureau. He had placed a dark lantern on a table and by its light she was able to see what was going on.

The ruffian, with his knife at her throat, demanded of her to tell whether she had any other jewelry. She replied that her gold watch was under the pillow. The fellow found the watch, and the man at the bureau having finished his labors, the two quickly took their leave. The value of the property taken was about $200.

When recovered from her fright Mrs. Hopkins informed her husband of the robbery and the police was put in possession of the facts. The robbery is certainly one of the most audacious on record in this city and it is to be hoped that the villains will be arrested.

FOR THE FIREMEN.

Notes of Interesting Matters at Home and Abroad.

The Nevada avenue track is going to be in splendid condition.

Chief Pixley, of the Colorado Springs Fire department, is the champion bowler of Colorado.

A patent automatic starter will be used at the coming tournament.

It looks as though the Pueblo department would not send any team to contest for honors this year.

Leadville will make an effort to have the next tournament held in that city.

It is said that the prospects are that thirty-two teams will be present at our tournament.

The Leadville Herald says that the Tabors and Humphreys are practicing daily, and from present indications will make a strong pull for first place.

Leadville will send two teams to the tournament. They will compete for both the plug and straightaway races, and will enter also for the foot race.

There is no doubt about the tournament being held in Colorado Springs. Funds will be raised before the day set for the contest.

Denver will probably enter four teams here, the Woodie Fishers, the Bates, Hooks 2, and the Tabors, Hooks 2 will compete for both the plug and straightaway races.

The Leadville Herald says "Our teams have not yet run for their positions. The leadership of the Tabors lies between Messrs. Pollard, Campbell, Canavan and Havens, and of the Humphreys between Messrs. Hunter, Medill, Tibbetts and Allen.

There will be eleven men in each team including the captain, they will run 700 feet in the plug race and 800 feet in the straightaway.

PLEASING PROGRESS.

Dedicating a Five Thousand Dollar Church at Silverton.

The following from the San Juan Herald, published at Silverton, Colorado, will prove interesting to many of our readers who are watching the progress of the Congregational church in that region, and who are personally acquainted with the pastor, the Rev. H. P. Roberts. The Herald says: "About one year ago, Rev. H. P. Roberts, pastor of the Congregational society of this place, started out with the intention of raising funds for the purpose of building a church edifice in Silverton, all services having previously been held in the school-house. He expected to get sufficient money pledged to erect a building suitable for the town to cost about two thousand dollars. The people responded so liberally that the original plans were changed, and it was thereupon determined to raise enough to build a four thousand dollar house. Work was at once commenced, the foundation stone laid in due time and with appropriate ceremonies, and the building partially enclosed, when the October storms set in and further operations necessarily suspended for the winter. No work was done on the building till this spring, when work was resumed and the building completed. As is often the case in buildings of this sort, unexpected expenses were incurred, till the edifice, including the lots upon which it is built, has cost the sum of about five thousand dollars. On Sunday evening last the people assembled in the new church to witness the dedication ceremonies which had been previously announced to occur on that evening. A large concourse of people had assembled, and after the usual opening exercises Mr. Roberts made a preliminary statement, of which the foregoing is a synopsis, and stated moreover that there was a debt upon the church of about seventeen hundred dollars, which sum he had advanced in order to complete the building and make it ready for occupancy. Having made his statement he left it with the people assembled to use their own judgment in wiping out the entire indebtedness. The Congregational society had promised to give five hundred dollars towards the church, providing the balance due was met by the people of Silverton. We are pleased to state that over twelve hundred dollars was raised by subscription in the space of less than half an hour, and the entire sum needed to efface the debt pledged. This was a surprise, not only to Mr. Roberts, but to the congregation also. Many of our citizens who had subscribed liberally on other occasions to the church building fund, came forward again and donated a second time, while new names were added with pleasure to the list, and we are gratified to say that the first Congregational church of Silverton was duly dedicated to the worship of God, entirely free from any pecuniary claims. The dedication services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Osborne, of Durango, and the discourse delivered by him on the occasion was replete with sterling common sense and eloquent appeal. The audience was listened to throughout with rapt attention. The music on the occasion, as rendered by the choir, was superb, and a delightful adjunct to the very enjoyable exercises of an exceedingly pleasant and profitable occasion."

ALLISON'S OUTLAWS.

A Band of Some Sort Engage in Robbery.

The last number of the Durango Record gives the particulars of the capture of another portion of Allison's gang of stage robbers as follows: "The gang of outlaws who for some time past have been committing slight depredations, and who a few days since "held up" young Creek, and took from him pony, saddle, pistol, etc., were caught yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Heather and Jimmy Mooney in the following manner: Officer Heather, hearing that Lac Buckley, one of the "chief moguls" of the gang, was in town, had an eye after him and along in the afternoon found him at the building on lower F street, now improvised as a hospital for Silm and Oliver, recently wounded in the Florida melee.

"Officer Heather at once arrested Buckley, who knew away the rest of the gang. He reported the others being at Frank Mitchell's milk ranch, about six miles west of here, on the road to Parrott. After arresting Buckley, Officer Heather, in company with Jimmy Mooney, started out to the ranch for the desperadoes, but met two of the gang named Charley Hardin and Tom Wall, near the toll-gate, coming toward town. The officer at once halted them, and they gave up. They were immediately disarmed, and the officer and assistant went on, taking the two disarmed men with them. When arrived at the ranch, Jim Bush, one of the leading lights of the gang, was watering his horse at the spring, and seeing the officers, attempted to escape, but in trying to pull his refractory animal across the brook, the halter strap or rope caught on the trigger of his Colt's forty-five, and the pistol going off shot him in the leg, the ball going clean through and coming out in the front of the shin-bone, smashing the bone to pieces, a number of the pieces of the latter being pulled out at the time by his comrades. Thus does Nemesis, sooner or later, overtake all wrong-doers.

"Dr. H. C. Clay was sent for, who went out immediately. Shortly after his arrival another of the gang, known as "Little Joe," came up, and being well armed, attempted to draw on the officers, but the latter being too quick for him, he submitted and handed over his revolver. The men were brought to town, last evening, and all except Bush, the wounded man, placed in jail. They will have a preliminary hearing this p. m. before Judge Flagler. We called in to see the man Bush, this morning, and though dangerously wounded, he seems proof against fear. He breathes out maledictions innumerable against Buckley, the informer. He intimates that he and others of the gang could tell of dark deeds if they chose. The officers got four Winchester rifles and five Colt's pistols, all 45-calibre. The Winchesters were bought in Durango, only a short time since, $180 being paid for them. They say the main man of the gang is not yet caught."

The Silver World relates the following instance of tall telephoning: "The telephone instruments were attached to the line completed to Animas Forks last Friday. In the evening, H. P. Lyon, then at the Forks, conversed with his wife in Silverton. Saturday evening we had a pleasant conversation with S. W. Raymond. Animas Forks is a little over twenty miles from Lake City with the continental divide intervening, which, at the point where the wire crosses, is over 12,000 feet above sea level."

That southern convention is worrying the Denver people awfully.

Senatorial candidates will handle the capital question delicately. The south will have a memory good for fifteen months.

Ex-Senator Conkling says his successor shall not be chosen before the adjournment. Is New York state owned by this gentleman?

The Colorado Springs GAZETTE says the spoil system has had no apologists or defenders since July 2. Who are the men that relied upon it previous to that date?

Senator Conkling and his crowd of 306.

The Leadville Democrat sees something to be thankful for in the attempted assassination of Garfield. It has virtually crushed the political element that existed by stirring up sectional strife.

Denver is awake to combinations. It should make one also if it has any friends. It might gain the help of Leadville on the ground that Leadville money is building her magnificent blocks, opera house and other magnificent improvements.

The grand jury has put off the consideration of the star route rascalities until next October. Meanwhile the republican national committee cannot afford to have the chief conspirator remain as one of its officers. The party makes itself accessory to these frauds by keeping such a man in office.

The Inter-Ocean suggests that Denver send out orators throughout the state to advocate the capital question. This is a capital suggestion. Our county commissioners will gladly give these orators our court house to talk, that El Paso should vote for Denver because of the liberal proportion of the state expenses paid by Arapahoe.

The Denver Republican takes up the Chieftain's uncalled for remarks on the press association as follows: "The Pueblo Chieftain did not have a representative present at the recent state editorial association meeting and hence designates it as a "gathering of the small fry journalists at Denver," and says it "in no manner represented or reflected the real newspaper talent of the state." Oh! why didn't Lambert come up?"

According to our dispatches of to-day, a quarter of a million of Germany's best mechanics and laborers are coming to this country. The protective system seems to be working elegantly there. It may be remarked that they are coming to a protection country. But if it is protection that benefits the laboring classes, Germany's laborers should remain at home, as Germany has a more stringent protection system and hence the laborers should be better off there.

The Pueblo Chieftain urges that county printing should not go outside of the counties provided it can be done there. This is right. Experience has shown that local printing houses can give as good work at as reasonable prices as outside parties have been doing it for. Culver, Page & Hoyne, among other foreign houses, has been doing a good deal of Colorado county work. When this firm had the monopoly it asked very high prices. We have known it to charge eight dollars a thousand for letter heads, which local printing offices would have done for six dollars. Lake, Arapahoe, El Paso, and many other counties are now patronizing home industries entirely. Other counties should follow their example.

The Denver News says that Jefferson, Weld, Boulder and Clear Creek, among other counties, ought to vote for Denver as the capital. Why? Denver by sly ways took the capital from Jefferson. She fought Boulder's University bill, and after receiving her support on the apportionment bill basely deserted her. She cheated all the cattle counties in the assessment which should give her strength in Weld. Through the last legislature her representatives fought Clear Creek in every way. Surely these counties should support Denver. As to the rest, Arapahoe has always opposed them whenever her interests conflicted. The northern counties must have great love and devotion for Denver.

There is one subject the state press might agitate with profit, and that is the very poor service given it by the Western Union company. The dispatches do not come through promptly and it causes endless annoyance. We have been trying to present at a large expense a good market report to our readers. But it is impossible. Sometimes we don't get any reports and nearly every night only a partial one. There is no good reason why the company should not have the market reports all in during the earlier part of the evening. So far as we know Superintendent Armstrong is doing his best to supply the report but the company will not give him the facilities. The number of wires is totally inadequate for the business. The Western Union cannot have much newspaper sympathy in its struggles, if it does not reform.

There seems to be a wide difference of opinion regarding the benefit the Denver & New Orleans road will be to Denver. Ex-Governor Evans as usual has "backed" in the enterprise as a philanthropic effort to benefit Denver. The following from the Tribune shows that the philanthropic spirit is not fully appreciated:

There is much bitter feeling among the Denver stockholders of the Denver & New Orleans at the course which Ex-Governor Evans has taken. It is charged that he has been acting simply as a tail to Jay Gould's kite and in direct enmity to the city's interests. How our merchants could have expected anything else after their experience with Evans, it is difficult to understand. His record in the Denver Pacific and the South Park should have been regarded as sufficient. The injunction which Polonious gave to Laertes to "Put money in the purse," is the ruling motive of his life, and he was as certain to do it in the Denver & New Orleans transaction as he has been to do it in all others with which he has been connected. Arapahoe county owes him some very disagreeable grudges for the way in which he has used it, and, through a pretense of philanthropy and a mock desire to advance its interests, filled his own pockets. His present plan is to make Pueblo, as nearly as his master, Jay Gould, can accomplish it, the distributing point of the state, and while this may be a very good thing for Pueblo, it is a very decidedly bad thing for Denver. The wonder is that any one who was ever connected with him took the risk of renewing the connection. The South Park deal was a successful one for the stockholders, but no part of its success was due to Evans. The road was nursed along in the first place by John W. Smith, and it only sold as it did because Jay Gould had a chance to make a million out of the transaction himself. The only thing which Evans did was to get Arapahoe to vote his company money and then to induce it to vote it away again. His grand climax in selling out to Jay Gould was not calculated to help either Denver or Colorado. Under certain circumstances the Denver & New Orleans might have been made to pay, but there is no hope for it now. The intention seems to be to make it simply an instrument for Jay Gould's revenge at the expense of Colorado interests, and Evans is acting as his tool to bring this about. The desire is to send it into a country where it can get no business by reason of iron-clad contracts, and to build up Pueblo at the expense of Denver. The intention will fail. Neither Evans nor his master can do any more injury to Denver than they have done already.

About the worst rebel paragraph we have seen is the following from the Omaha Herald:

Jefferson Davis is now the object of a great deal of malignant hate from his associates in the late war, and a cheap and foolish dislike to him animates many narrow-minded blockheads in the north. If, however, Albert Sidney Johnston had survived Shiloh and Lee had taken possession of Cemetery Ridge at Gettysburg, Jefferson Davis would have been a great man, a hero, the head of triumphant revolution.

As the soldiers in the south all join in the severe criticism of Davis, it is to be presumed that it was written by one of the rebel home guards or northern sympathizers. Was the late leader of the democratic party in Colorado the author?

ALARMED AND FRIGHTENED.

The great metropolitan papers of Denver are all alarmed about the capital question, all of them having given considerable space recently to stir up the Denverites to the importance of the question. The News recommends that ballots be sent out. The Inter-Ocean thinks that orators should be sent, while the Republican urges that a mass meeting of the citizens be held. These are all excellent suggestions and should be acted upon immediately. None of them will do any hurt and it will make the campaign more lively. The capital will go south of the Divide anyway, but the victory will be all the more pleasant to have a respectable sort of an opposition. It is daily becoming more evident that the south has only to agree on one city to have the capital and this the south will do. We urge southern papers to take up this question vigorously. We can no longer be outvoted and snubbed.

But as we said above, we want to have Denver make a struggle, simply for the fun it will put into the canvass. We suggest that they are not putting forward all their strong arguments. There is the $5,000 state appropriation last winter to improve the capitol grounds, which the state will lose, if the capital goes elsewhere. It is true that other cities were willing to give the grounds and improve them without charge to the state. But the fact remains that Denver wanted the capital badly enough to generously expend the $5,000 on the capitol grounds at the state's expense, and this money will be lost if the capital goes elsewhere. Again Denver secured the passage of a bill by which the best and most valuable school lands in the state shall be sold at a nominal figure, so that Denver may have a beautiful park. If the capital is not located at Denver, the state will not enjoy this park provided at the expense of the state school fund. We might also suggest other arguments, such as Arapahoe's generosity in allowing other counties to contribute more than their share to the state's expenses, also the disinterested manner in which her entire senatorial delegation strove to secure such legislation as would have paralyzed the Denver & Rio Grande and other local railroad corporations in their efforts to give railroad communications in various parts of the state. But we will not crowd these suggestions.

Another Reason for Thanksgiving.

Denver Inter-Ocean.

Perhaps it has not entered into the mind of man to conceive some of the changes that would have occurred had General Garfield died of his wounds. Now there is ex-Gov. Routt, than whom, probably, no man felt more indignant over the assassination. Under the promises made by Conkling at Chicago, Routt must have become postmaster general in Mr. Arthur's cabinet. That is, he would have been offered the place, and would, of course, under the circumstances, and displaying his usual good sense, have declined it.

MEMORABLE WORDS.

Gen. Garfield's Remarks Upon the Death of Lincoln.

The official report in the congressional record of Saturday, April 24, 1865, recites that Mr. Garfield, in the house of representatives, after prayer by Chaplain Boyton, moved to dispense with the reading of the journal, and said:

"Mr. Speaker, I desire to move that this house do now adjourn. And before the vote upon that motion is taken I desire to say a few words. This day, Mr. Speaker, will be sadly memorable, so long as this nation shall endure, which, God grant, may be till the last syllable of record time,' when the volume of human history shall be sealed up and delivered to the omnipotent judge. In all future time, on the recurrence of this day, I doubt not that the citizens of this republic will meet in solemn assembly to reflect on the life and character of Abraham Lincoln and the awful tragic event of April 14, 1865—an event unparalleled in the history of nations, certainly unparalleled in our own. It is eminently proper that this house should this day place upon its record a memorial of that event." After a brief eulogy upon the late president and a pathetic allusion to the circumstances of his death, Mr. Garfield concluded: "It is no one man who killed Abraham Lincoln; it was the embodied spirit of treason and slavery, inspired with fearful and despairing hate, that struck him down in the moment of the nation's supremest joy. Ah, sir, there are times in the history of men and nations when they stand so near the veil that separates mortals from the immortals, time from eternity and men from their God, that they can almost hear the beatings, and feel the pulsations of the heart of the Infinite. Through such a time has this nation passed. When 250,000 brave spirits passed from the field of honor, that thin veil to the presence of God, and when at last its parting folds admitted the martyr president to the company of the dead heroes of the republic, the nation stood so near the veil that the whispers of God were heard by the children of men. Awestricken by his voice the American people knelt in tearful reverence and made a solemn covenant with him and with each other that this nation should be saved from its enemies, that all its glories should be restored, and on the ruins of slavery and treason the temples of freedom and justice should be built and should survive forever. It remains for us, consecrated by that great event and under a covenant with God, to keep that faith, to go forward in the great work until it shall be completed. Following the lead of that, and obeying the high behests of God, let us remember that

'He has sounded forth a trumpet that shall never call retreat:
He is sifting the hearts of men before his judgment seat.
Be swift, my soul, to answer him; be jubilant, my feet,
For God is marching on.'"

At the conclusion of this peroration the house silently adjourned.

THE BERLIN CONGRESS.

An Historical Painting for the City of Berlin.

London News.

The large picture of the Berlin congress, painted for the city of Berlin by M. Anton von Werner, is now exhibited at the rooms of the Fine Art society, New Bond street. M. Werner, director of the Berlin Academy of Arts, a well-known painter of historical subjects, has selected for his picture the moment which permitted the most striking and active grouping of the members of the congress. Instead of depicting them seated at the horse shoe table in the ball-room of the Radzivil palace, he has seized on the instant of signing the final protocol as the best suited to pictorial effect. Permitted to be present at this final act, the artist was able to imagine his picture as a whole the portraits of course being made from individual studies, taken at various times when sittings could be obtained. The grouping is certainly effective. In the midst of the picture is the gigantic figure of Prince Bismarck, who having just signed the protocol, shakes hands cordially with Count Schouvaloff. Stepping forward also towards Count Schouvaloff, but a little in the rear of the imperial German chancellors, appears Count Andrassy, with his regard fin. The Austro-Hungarian chancellor is clad in a light blue Hungarian Honved uniform, thrown into strong relief by the dark blue tunic with yellow facings and silver epaulets worn by Prince Bismarck. Immediately behind whom is seen the somewhat Mephistophelean face of the chancellor of legation, M. Lothar Bucher, supposed to be deep in the confidence of his chief. Count Schouvaloff wears a dark green uniform blazing with decorations, and smiles with all that bonhomie which his features so aptly express. This group is very well painted and boldly drawn, so boldly, in fact, as to dwarf, to a very noticeable extent, the remainder of the picture. To the left of the spectator sits the venerable Prince Gortschakoff, his face wearing that child-like and bland expression which all diplomats have envied him, his hand placed as if in kindly depreciation or remonstrance on the wrist of Lord Beaconsfield. The representative of England is a sombre figure, in his levee dress, without a single star among the blaze of ribbons and uniforms. He is standing by the side of Prince Gortschakoff's chair, but is leaning on a stick and his face although a good likeness, wears an expression of doubt, if not disappointment, strikingly in contrast with the "peace of honor" speech on his landing at Dover. The figures of both of these are not only dwarfed by the tremendous bulk of Prince Bismarck and the dashing uniform of Count Andrassy, but suffer also from contrast with the picturesque form of Count Karolyi, whose velvet dolman is visible just behind Prince Gortschakoff's chair. Lord Salisbury is no better treated, for he is discovered in the background among the Turkish representatives, and sorely shorn of his proportions. Next to Lord Salisbury is Lord Ampthill, then Lord Odo Russell, with spectacles on his nose, and, comfortably seated at the table, appears the massive form of the late M. Von Bulow, then German secretary of state for foreign affairs. On the extreme right stands Mehemed Ali, a native of Magdeburg, murdered shortly after the sitting of the congress; next to whom is Karatheodori Pasha just about to sign. At the opposite side of the picture is M. Waddington, and in the background are discovered Prince Hohenlohe, the artist M. Von Werner, Count Oubril, Count Corti, Count de Mouy, M. Von Radowitz and Count St. Vallier. Many of the portraits, and notably those of Count Andrassy and Prince Bismarck, are of high excellence, and the picture altogether records in a thoroughly efficient manner an interesting page of modern history. It is not proposed at present to engrave M. Von Werner's picture, but a photogravure has been employed to reproduce the drawings taken for the purpose of assuring faithful resemblance.

Victoria.

New York Herald Account of the Royal Review.

As the sun began to decline behind the magnificent elms of the Lone Walk the only battery of artillery on the ground thundered forth a royal salute, and a few minutes later the gates of Windsor Castle were flung open and the royal party, escorted by a detachment of Life Guards, emerged into the Lone Walk, which was lined by regiments of the Second army corps, amid the hearty cheers of the assembled people. The queen looked her best and seems to have grown younger during her voluntary retirement from public life. She was accompanied by the crown princess of Prussia, and also by the princess of Wales, looking almost as youthful and beautiful as on the day when she entered London as the destined bride of the prince of Wales. Among the distinguished visitors were King Kalakaua, who attracted considerable attention; the crown prince of Prussia, Sir Frederick Roberts, who received marked proofs of popular favor, and Sir Garnet Wolseley. The prince of Wales marched at the head of the Honorable Artillery company, but was not recognized by the mass of people, and passed almost unnoticed. The duke of Connaught, looking the beau ideal of a soldier, rode at the head of the First brigade of the Second division, and was the lion of the day. The whole force was under the command of the duke of Cambridge. No maneuvers were attempted, the troops merely taking up position and marching past. The general appearance of the men was satisfactory, especially in the regiments from the northern counties. One man is reported to have died from fatigue. When the last regiment had passed the saluting point the royal cortege drove along the line of people, who cheered the queen with the utmost enthusiasm.

UNHAPPY PERU.

Chaos Come Again and no Government.

PANAMA, July 8. The following news from Peru is received: The congress called by the Provincial government of Lima has transacted no business, obtained no quorum, and done nothing to alleviate the situation. A large amount of talk has been indulged in, as usual, talk which has amounted to nothing, and done nothing which will bear fruit. In the mean time, Peirola has called a congress to meet at Ayacucho, July 1, and it is said there will be no lack of representatives at the reunion of that body, whether a legal representation of the people of Peru, or of the people of the different localities, it is hard to say. Peirola has visited Arequipa and Lapaz Bolivia. He was received with high ecclesiastical honors in the former city, but in the latter he seems to have accomplished little. The Alliance is dead, its military power destroyed, its resources exhausted, and both Calderon and Peirola appear disposed to take the shortest method to secure peace, that is, by negotiating with the Chilians, which hitherto they have thoroughly refused to do. The only question is, "Will the Chilians treat with them after the declaration of their minister of war (Mr. Vegara) that the door was closed against negotiations from that quarter," after Peirola's insolent circular of January last. Two governments have recognized the provisional government of Calderon—those of the United States and Costa Rica. This may lead to a general recognition by the diplomatic corps of Lima, in which case the day is over for Don Nicolas De Peirola. The Chilian and Peruvian troops have been busy during the last few weeks, the former pursuing the bandits of Canelivalle, who have been thrown out without mercy, and the latter asserting the power of the provisional government in the disaffected departments, in the neighborhood of Lima. Both have been measurably successful, although the success was in a small way. From Chili the news is entirely occupied with politics. The war is forgotten in the struggle for political place and power. Bagneda, the military candidate, has resigned in deep disgust with a government which exhibits the decided intention to control all elections. Equador and Columbian news is nil.

THE LAND BILL AND THE LORDS.

Some Social Events in England.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The World's London special says: Although the urgent "whip" has been sent out to the tory lords calling them together when the land bill reaches the upper house, I have reason to know that Lord Salisbury has given up the idea of trying to defeat the measure. It was cumbrous, unwieldy and confused, when it was first brought down, and a multitude of cross amendments which the government has adopted will render some of the most important clauses practically inoperative. Men of large experience in the matter say the land bill will so complicate the existing relations between landlord and tenant that it will have to be recast at the next session of parliament, and the lords are so anxious to throw the entire responsibility of its failure upon Gladstone, that, beyond adding a few unimportant amendments, more to belong than to elucidate the meaning of the measure, they will pass it as it reaches them. The speech of the Duke of Argylo on the Bess Borough commission has led to a general discussion of the whole question of land tenure in Ireland, in which the duke and his friends have come off second best. Baron Dowse, one of the wittiest and ablest of the Irish judges, who was a member of the commission, has routed his Scotch and English assailants with ease. By the way, when Dowse was attorney-general for Ireland, Disraeli, to whom he was politically opposed, described him as the most accomplished two-handed fighter in the house," and the way he has polished off the Duke of Argyle shows that his hands have not lost their cunning through want of practice.

The chief social events of the season have been a garden party at Marlborough house, at which nearly everybody in society was present; a garden party yesterday afternoon at the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, and the ball of the Second Life guards, at which the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Crown Prince of Germany, and the Dukes of Connaught and Cambridge were present. Twelve hundred guests were invited, including most of the prettiest women in London. This was the most successful ball of the year, notwithstanding the excessive heat of the weather. The night was quite equal to the hottest July night in New York.

The Prince of Wales had gone to the Derby agricultural show in the morning and returned in the afternoon, the journey there and back being 270 miles. He made several calls, dined out, and wound up by staying at the ball till 3 o'clock in the morning.

DENVER DOINGS.

Matters of Interest Over the Divide.

DENVER, July 18.—The Alvord house was to-day attached by Daniels, Fisher & Co, and Kirkpatrick & Brown The former's claim amounts to about $5,000 and the latter's to about $3,000. Ireland, the junior partner, went east last Saturday, and the creditors suspected something crooked Ice has risen from 25 to 50-cents-per hundred Ireland was proprietor of the Archer Ice house and it has been attached for his debts The only two other ice houses are the Crystal Lake, containing about 10,000 tons, and another with 2,000 tons The Crystal Lake raised the price and the smaller company followed its example

The commissioners have increased the number and rearranged the voting precincts of this county

Mayor Sopris has announced his intention not to be a candidate for re-election

CANVASSING THE SPEAKERSHIP.

Changes Recently Made in the Composition of the House

CHICAGO, July 18 The Inter Ocean's Washington special says The news of the election of Warner Miller as senator to succeed Platt was not unexpected to the supporters of the administration There is considerable speculation as to the effect which the choice of those gentlemen who are members of the next house to be senators will have upon the election of a speaker and other officers of the house After the election last fall the membership of the house was as follows Total number of representatives, 293, republican, 147, democrats, 136, greenbackers, 9, independent, 1 The independent is J Hyatt Smith, of Brooklyn, who will vote for the republican candidate for speaker Frye was elected senator to succeed Blaine, and the vacancy there has not been filled There are or will be four vacancies in New York, three of which were filled by republicans, viz, Morton, Miller and Lapham No election whatever has been ordered in the ninth district where a vacancy was caused by the death of Fernando Wood It has turned, the successors to Miller and Lapham cannot be elected and qualified in time to take their seats the first of December, the greenbackers will hold the balance of power Democrats here profess great confidence in their ability to elect a successor to Morton notwithstanding one vote would be seriously felt The democrats however are believed to be reckoning without their host in placing any reliance on the greenbackers vote. It is hardly possible for the greenbackers to unite upon any candidate of their own for speaker, and four Missouri greenbackers Hazeltine, Rice, Ford and Burroughs have announced their intention of voting with the republicans

BEFORE THE JURY

Complaints and Other Matters Acted Upon.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Among the indictments found by the criminal court grand jury to-day was one against George W Ingalls, United States Indian agent at the Plute agency, for presenting false vouchers; one for $281 and one for $134 in 1878 It is alleged that Ingalls is a defaulter to the amount of about $100,000 to the government. Ingalls is said to be somewhere out west

Colonel Henry C Deahla, who was formerly United States collector at Sitka, Alaska, was before the grand jury to-day complaining that a local paper had published him as an insane person and dangerous Deahla said this publication had done him great injury. The grand jury advised him to sue for damages He said he was too poor and the jury promised to look into his case after recess Deahla complained that Secretary Sherman had removed him as collector and two years ago there was talk of his having threatened Sherman with violence and the treasury watchmen were ordered not to let him into the treasury

FOR THE LAND OF THE FREE.

A Quarter of a Million Emigrants in One Year From Germany.

LONDON, July 18 A Berlin correspondent says the statistics published by the Hamburg police authorities show the number of German emigrants passing through Hamburg alone to America from January 1st to June 1st, 1881, amounts to 74,683, being twice the number for the same period in the year following the late war between France and Germany The figures for such emigrants in the corresponding period last year were 32,489, and total for the year 100,190 So that if emigration proceeds in the same proportion for the second half of 1881 the government will find that reckoning the fugitives by other channels, it has lost in 1881 about a quarter of a million of its most efficient subjects

MAUD S.

Was Her Time Tampered With at Pittsburg?

CHICAGO, July 18 The Times says there is a shrewd suspicion abroad that the time at the Pittsburg races has been doctored during the past week in one or two instances for sensational purposes The management is said not to be of a class to inspire the utmost confidence. The track is not known to be especially fast and when it was given out that Maud S had lowered her record there it was thought rather startling Now comes word that Mattie Hunter paced a mile there yesterday in 2 13¾, or 3¼ seconds lower than her record and the fastest ever paced except Sleepy Tom's 2 12¼. This will be likely to cast a shadow of doubt over the alleged performance of Maud S.

DISCHARGING THE GRAND JURY.

Guitteau Will Have No Hearing Until Fall,

WASHINGTON, July 18—The grand jury of the criminal court appeared before the court at 1 o'clock this afternoon District Attorney Corkhill in a short address said that when he asked that the grand jury be held after the 4th of July nobody expected or dreamed of so great a crime being committed as an attempt on the life of the president The crime was one which everybody admitted at the time would demand prompt and certain punishment in case of a fatal result to the president. He had therefore deemed it his duty to hold the grand jury to await the result of the president's injuries. While all the country is deeply gratified that the president is in the way of recovery, it cannot yet be told just what action or means should be taken towards the punishment of the would be assassin The district attorney then read a note addressed to him by the surgeons attending the president in reply to an official request from him as to the president's case and his recovery. This note was signed by Dr Bliss and the other three surgeons It was that while the president has up to the present time done exceedingly well and we anticipate his recovery we can't assert with confidence that his injuries may not result fatally Col Corkhill said that in view of this condition of the president he would move that the grand jury be discharged until the 12th of September and the court so ordered, so nothing will be done with Guitteau, not even towards indicting him before fall

NOTHING LIKE PREJUDICE

Some English Arguments for English Rail Cars.

LONDON, July 18 —The Standard in an editorial says the robbery on the American railway train, an account of which is published to-day, although by no means an uncommon occurrence, happens to be an opportunity afforded as a reply to the American strictures upon the danger of the English plan of separate compartments The American cars seem specially made to invite this kind of outrage With the English system such a wholesale raid is impossible, in any case one carriage could alone be robbed here before the passengers and officials could organize a resistance As there is no example of such an event in our railway history, we may assume that the difficulty is that the danger is so great as to deter even the most daring criminal The actual danger of murder and robbery is far less on English lines than on American

Found a Comet.

ROCHESTER, New York, July 18 —A new comet has been discovered by the Ann Arbor observatory in right ascension 5 hours 40 minutes, north, declination 39 degrees It is bright and its movements are slow SWIFT

This comet is not visible to the naked eye It is described as appearing bright in the telescope, and has a northerly motion of about one degree per day It is situated in the constellation Auriga about four degrees south of the second magnitude star Menkaline This star is about seven degrees east of the bright star Capella. Its position is thus nearly the same as that of the large comet, which appeared three weeks since As the comet sets at 8 30 o'clock p m, it is not visible in the morning It rises at two minutes past 1 o'clock in the morning thirty five degrees east from the north point, from which its position can be easily found It can be seen with a large opera or field glass, It will be recognized by its hazy, nebulous appearance

Cutting Rates

NEW YORK, July 18 —The war among competing roads leading westward still continues To-day scalpers are selling tickets to Chicago for $9 Persons purchasing tickets to points further west than Chicago do not find it an easy matter to secure reduction on old prices There appears to be no war on prices within this state The greatest reduction is being made on tickets to Chicago Many persons are taking advantage of this war and are spending their vacations in western cities

Transvaal Transactions

LONDON, July 18.—A dispatch from Durban says affairs in Transvaal are looking serious It is reported that a dead-lock exists in the commission and great uneasiness prevails in Pretoria and Lyndeburg where the natives are preparing for an outbreak.

A Fire of Two Years.

WILKESBARRE, Pa, July 18 After two years of labor the fire in the Stanton shaft of this city has been subdued The work of repairing the immense destruction caused by water and fire is now being pushed vigorously

The Foreign Wheat Crop

LONDON, July 18 —A correspondent says the latest estimate of the harvest in Hungary agree that the yield of wheat will be much larger and of a better quality than last year.

Reports from Prussia state that the yield will be excellent.

Roumania grain crops are much damaged by spring rains and storms

Reports from France show that the harvest with few exceptions will be excellent. It is believed she will have no need to import any wheat.

General Phil Sheridan, accompanied by his family, arrived from the east on the afternoon train yesterday. They have engaged apartments at the Manitou house, Manitou, for the season.

Twenty-seven car loads of people passed over the Manitou branch of the Rio Grande on Sunday. Of this number twenty carloads came from Denver and Pueblo, and the remainder from Colorado Springs.

The Denver Times wickedly remarks: "The Register-Call has constituted itself the special champion of Mrs. Churchill, of the Antelope, and the portly editor goes about singing:

"I'll chase the Antelope over the plains."

Leadville seems anxious that Colorado Springs should fail in its funds for the state tournament. Such anxieties are useless for Colorado Springs seldom falls in what she undertakes, neither will she this time.

[illegible], whose name is familiar to [illegible] of our citizens, was among the Denver excursionists who visited Manitou on Sunday. He was partially uniformed as of old and said that he came down to escape the heat of Denver.

It is estimated that there were fully 2,000 strangers at Manitou on Sunday, including those from Colorado Springs. The hotels were all crowded to their fullest capacity, it being necessary to place cots in the halls and parlors in order to accommodate the guests.

A race has been arranged for Saturday, July 23, between E. West's Sailor Boy and D. Moody's bay horse Tom, for $150 a side. Distance 300 yards. All the lovers of sport are invited to attend at 2½ o'clock in the afternoon at the Pike's Peak Driving park.

On and after August 1st, the passenger rates from Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo to the Missouri river points will be reduced to $25 for first-class and $23.50 for second-class. This will effect a corresponding reduction on all through tickets to eastern points.

Congressman W. H. Calkins and wife, of Indiana, accompanied by Major A. C. Harris and wife, of Indianapolis, were among the arrivals at the Manitou house, Manitou, on Sunday. They expect to remain there until Wednesday, when they depart for Leadville, where both of the gentlemen named are interested in the mines.

There will be a grand jubilee concert in Court House hall this evening for the benefit of the A. M. E. church. The entertainment will consist of jubilee singing, Ethiopian sketches, plantation scenes and comic acts depicting the life of the negro. Messrs. Madison and Wynne, who will take an active part in the concert, are well worth seeing. There will be an ice cream supper at the A. M. E. church immediately after the concert.

A telegram received by Sheriff Smith yesterday conveyed the information that Samuel F. Bates, alias "Buffalo Sam," one of the horse thieves implicated in the stealing of W. H. Stark's horses last May, had been apprehended at Sidney, Nebraska, and one of the horses stolen from Stark recovered. Deputy Sheriff Dana left for Denver yesterday afternoon, where he will procure a requisition and then proceed to Nebraska for the criminal. It will be remembered that Charles Hughes, alias "Long Charley," was arrested some time ago for implication in the same crime, and is now in the county jail awaiting the next term of the district court.

Mr. Ernest Ingersoll, of Scribner's Monthly and member of the United States Fish commission, accompanied by Mrs. Ingersoll, was the guest of Mr. Stanley Wood last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Ingersoll left for the Pacific coast on the 4 p. m. express yesterday.

Mr. Wm. Scott, the plumber, has leased the high board fence which encloses the Pike's Peak Driving Park, and will dispose of advertising space on the same.

Some of the hotel runners at the depot are becoming so impudent that respected citizens have not the privilege of expressing their sentiments without being insulted.

Small petty thefts are daily occurring at both Colorado Springs and Manitou, and it is evident that an organized gang of sneak thieves are working both places.

Several of El Paso county's ranchmen have found it necessary to lease ranches and move their sheep as the water supply has entirely failed owing to the scarcity of rain.

Mr. J. F. Atherton, proprietor of the Colorado Springs hotel, left for the east yesterday morning, expecting to remain absent about two weeks.

Messrs. Wilbur & Newton supplied many of the Pueblo excursionists with livery rigs on Sunday.
